History

In 1947 Sid and Roxie Siderious purchased a spot, originally built in 1928 as a little roadside cafe with rooms to rent along the original Overseas Highway on upper Matecumbe Key, and transformed it into what is now known as Green Turtle Inn.

After a gorgeous 2006 renovation you can still experience the famed Islamorada restaurant's spirit of the good 'ole days by dining on the very best in authentic Florida Keys cooking at Green Turtle Inn.

The Albury House: Following the Labor Day storm of 1935, Ed Albury built his classic "Conch House." The homestead was transformed into a café and then in March of 2002 it became the signature restaurant – Kaiyo – that has now morphed into Kaiyo Grill.

Kaiyo was the first Asian fusion/Sushi restaurant in Islamorada. Since opening it has been a "be seen and dine well" restaurant for locals, visitors and celebrities.
